

Falkirk St Andrew's Church

ROLL OF HONOUR

(SMR 931)

The church roll of honour, which contains the names of 173 men and women who served in the war, was unveiled at the same time as the tablet, and the service was conducted by the Rev. J.B. Johnston, B.D. It takes the form of a parchment, suitably mounted and in a simple oak frame, and is placed in the main vestibule of the church. The list of names has an architectural setting in the style of Late French Renaissance, and the whole is executed in delicate colourings. The royal coat-of-arms, with a group of flags, is the distinctive point of the design, and to right and left are cartouches containing the crest of the church and the figure of St Andrew. Throughout the work is full of features symbolical of the church's part in the war and of the achievements of the fighting forces. It was the work of Robert Wilson, A.R.I.B.A., who gave his time freely. He had held a commission during the war in the Royal Engineers, and was a member and deacon of St Andrew's U.F. Church.
